Poor Richard's Sayings

Life's tragedy is that we get old too soon and wise too late.
 Tricks and treachery are the practice of fools, that don't have brains enough to be honest.
 Having been poor is no shame, but being ashamed of it, is. When in doubt, don't.
 The doors of wisdom are never shut.
 A good conscience is a continual Christmas.
 When you're finished changing, you're finished.
 Remember that credit is money.
 He that is good for making excuses is seldom good for anything else.
 Rebellion against tyrants is obedience to God.
 Any fool can criticize, condemn and complain - and most fools do.
from Poor Richard's Almanac by Benjamin Franklin
